PACIFIC COAST.

Viticultural Debate at San Francisco.

RAILROAD RATES REDUCED.

Steady Decline in Wheat Quotations—Fish for Southern Streams.

[Associated Press Dispatches to the HERALD.]

SAN FRANCISCO, August 24.—A conference was held to-day between a committee of the Santa Clara Viticultural Society and members of Congress from this district. A number of prominent viticulturists of the State were present, including Professor Hilgard of the State University. The meeting was called to order by John T. Doyle of Menlo Park.

THE NEW MEASURES.

Representative Morrow gave his opinions as to the advisability of introducing the new measures and urged the preparation of two bills, one covering adulteration and the other striking off the internal revenue tax of 90 cents per gallon on brandy used in fortifying.

FELTON'S FEARS.

Congressman Felton thought that the same bills being defeated at the last session could not now be passed.

DIFFICULTIES AHEAD.

Representative McKenna said that a party hostile to the reduction of internal revenue, led by Speaker Carlisle, will organize next Congress, and California will have difficulty in even getting a hearing before the principal committees, and on these California is not represented. He thought that some compromise should be made with the Eastern growers, but in any event it would be a difficult matter to have a bill of any description passed.

WINE FORTIFICATION.

An argument between Felton, Doyle and Wetmore, on the question of using corn spirits to fortify sweet wines, then followed. Secretary Wetmore held that if the tax were removed from all spirits introduced into wine, grain spirits, being cheaper, would be used instead of brandy. This is what California producers do not want. He said: "We need a sweet wine bill just exactly as it was, or nothing at all. We may, however, use grain spirit for foreign export if the distillers insist upon it."

HARASZTHY'S PROPOSITION.

Arfad Haraszthy spoke in favor of dry wines. He said that the sweet wine question could be settled by providing that all sweet wines should be taxed except such as are made in vineyards. Dry wines should be defined as grape juice, to suit California dealers, and a second class, to meet the approval of Ohio men, should permit the addition of sugar only. These wines should be free from taxation and all others assessed.

EFFECT OF SUCH A MOVEMENT.

This plan would meet the approval of Eastern people, but would have opposition from the wine firms who are manufacturing wine without a drop of grape juice in it. The principle is exactly the same as in the oleomargarine bill.

A FRIENDLY FEELING DEVELOPING.

The meeting developed one notable fact, and that is that there is a greater unanimity of feeling among wine growers of the State than has existed for years back.

READY BY NOVEMBER.

The committee appointed at the last session of the Grape Growers and Wine Makers' Association will go to work at once and have the bills prepared by the middle of November.

RAILROAD RATES.

General Reductions—Affect on Los Angeles.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 24.—The Southern Pacific company, in deference to the suggestion of the State Railroad Commissioners, has decided to reduce the four-cent-per-mile rates to 3 cents; five-cent rates to 4 cents, and six-cent rates to 5 cents on all the lines controlled by the Central and Southern Pacific. This will reduce rates from San Francisco to Los Angeles from $21.70 at present to $15. Rates to Fresno will be reduced from $7.60 to $5.90. Expected reduction to take place September 1.

THE WHEAT EXCHANGE.

Big Break in Prices—A Further Decline Expected.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 24.—The local wheat market continues to be as great an enigma as at any time since the closing of the Call Board on August 1st. Values continue to steadily decline, with very slight outward trading as signs of excitement. After the cessation of business for nineteen days the Call Board resumed their sessions last Monday. Operators were timid in putting out wheat options, and business in that line was almost nominal the first day.

PRICES PAID.

There was but one seller '87 contract recorded, the price being $1.48. At the morning session on Tuesday there were three sales of 100 tons each at a range of $1.44 to $1.45. This morning the figures for like options ranged firm at $1.37½ at opening to $1.35½ at the close, showing a decline of about $2 per ton in a single day.

THE AFTERNOON SESSION.

This afternoon not a single trade was recorded, and the highest price offered was $1.30, with offerings at $1.35. Despite this great break in prices, no failures are reported, although the fact is well established that the holdings of wheat by the former "bull" clique are enormous, but there is no sign of their weakening their hold upon grain purchased at figures varying from $1.70 up to $2.17½.

MACKAY'S RETENTIVENESS.

John W. Mackay, who has been frequently named as a chief holder of wheat, will make no public statement beyond reiterating what he declared a few days ago, namely, that he has no personal interest of any character in the wheat market.

A DROP PREDICTED.

Traders generally claim that wheat is now about on a foreign shipping basis, though the bear traders claim that the prices will have to drop to about $1.20 per cental for shipment to Liverpool.

FISH FOSTERING.

Streams to be Stocked in San Bernardino County.

SACRAMENTO, August 24.—About 10,000 Lake Tahoe fry, propagated at the Fish Commissioners' hatchery, Nevada county, came down this morning en route to Colton, San Bernardino county, to be deposited in the streams or lakes near that town. An employe of the hatchery accompanies the fry and every fifteen minutes, night and day, they are sprinkled in order that they may arrive at their destination alive.

SAN DIEGO.

Another Motor Road to be Built—Its Organizers.

SAN DIEGO, August 24.—A company is being organized to build a motor road from this city to Julian. The road as projected will run from Twenty-second street to West Cholas valley and along to the headwaters of the Sweetwater, passing through the mountains near Valle de las Viejas, crossing the south fork of San Diego and Boulder creeks, taking to the right of Cuyamacca dam and so by Stonewall and thence to Julian. The distance will be fifty to fifty-five miles. The organization will be completed in a day or so and the work of construction begun at once. The first twenty miles will be built within a couple of months. The principal projectors of the road are Robert Allison, Doctor Cave and Lieutenant-Governor Waterman.

FOUNDATIONS GIVE WAY.

The basement pillars in Klauber & Levi's large three-story brick wholesale store broke to-night, owing to poor building and the heavy hardware piled on the first floor. The stock and floor went to the basement and the floors of the other stories show signs of falling. No one was in the building at the time or serious casualties would be reported. It is the largost store in the city and just completed. The present damage amounts to about $30,000, of which Klauber & Levi lose $10,000. J. P. Beckesta, of San Jose, owns the building.

STATE BANK INCORPORATED

The State bank of San Diego has been incorporated. The chief organizer is J. B. Brayler, banker of San Jose and Fresno, and associated with him in the institution are the stock holders of the First National Bank and the Consolidation National Bank. The directors are Judge Putterbugh, W. H. Woolwine, C. Killum, J. H. Braley and brother. The capital stock of the concern is $300,000 about a half of which is paid up.

NEW STAGE LINE.

The first trip of the new stage line between here and Ensenada was made this morning. Hereafter tri-weekly trips will be made. The distance between the two points is 102 miles and the trip will consume 36 hours.

NEW COMMODITY TARIFF.

H. B. Wilkins, general passenger agent of the California Southern says that he will in a very few days issue a special commodity tariff to apply between this city and all stations on the California Southern railway. This will have the effect of lowering freight tariffs between San Diego and Oceanside, Colton, Barstow, Los Angeles and other way stations.

STREET CAR STOCK.

The capital stock of the San Diego Street Car Company was increased yesterday from $100,000 to $250,000.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

James Murphy sold his ranch in Sweetwater to-day for $40,000 to the San Diego Land and Town Company. A 50-foot front town lot was sold here for $90,000.

AN EARTHQUAKE.

A sharp shock of earthquake was felt here this morning. It lasted several seconds.

NORTHERN REAL ESTATE,

A Big Boom at Oakland—Great Excitement.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 24.—The real estate fever at Oakland is rapidly developing into wild contagion. Excited crowds of men and women were congregated upon the street to-day, while the offices were crowded with persons examining plats of property for sale.

THE OFFICES CROWDED.

In front of one office where lots were offered in series on graduated scales, first 60 at $450, the second at $500, third at $550 and the remainder at $600, a procession formed in front of the office waiting for their turn.

MANY SUBDIVISIONS MADE.

Lots anywhere between Oakland and Berkeley were eagerly bought and tracts of farm lands below Oakland in the direction of the Laundry farm and Mills' Seminary are being platted and sold in subdivisions.

GEOLOGICAL GLEANINGS.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 24.—Reports from Mr. Weber, who was sent out some time ago by the Geological department to report on the mining resources of the coast, and especially of the coal and oil deposits of northern counties, have been received and are encouraging.

GOOD FOR HUMBOLDT COUNTY.

He is now in Humboldt county and has examined a gas well with a yield similar to that of the Stockton wells, and also coal and oil deposits in the vicinity, and reports the prospects good for a plentiful supply of both products.

CHICO CHIPS.

A Fatal Accident—Postponement of the Fair.

CHICO, August 24.—George Allinger, while preparing to go hunting with his father to-day, had his left arm torn off by the accidental discharge of his gun as he was climbing into a buggy.

The fair of the Third District Agricultural Association, which was to have been opened on September 6th, has been postponed to October 11th.

GENERAL NEWS.

Not Much Change in Bartlett's Condition.

INTERVIEW WITH WATERMAN.

Associated Press Dispatches to the HERALD.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 24.—Governor Bartlett's condition this morning is far better than was anticipated. His brother, Columbus Bartlett, stated that there was hope that the life of the Governor would be prolonged for a few days. "My brother passed a good night," said Mr. Bartlett. "He went to sleep early and did not often awaken, and then only for a few moments, when he received some nourishment."

CHURCH RITES.

"About 8 o'clock last night he expressed a wish to see Dr. Beers, of Trinity Church, an old friend of his. The doctor arrived about 10 o'clock and administered the last sacrament. He is also with him this morning."

HE SEEMS BETTER.

"The Governor has taken very little nourishment, but it is surprising to note the change in his condition. I may say that he is very much better. His speech is clearer and his voice has gained in strength."

ENQUIRING FRIENDS.

The house has been besieged with visitors since the announcement was made yesterday that the Governor's life was in danger. The Governor was watched last night by Drs. Perry and Buckel. Early this afternoon the Governor's condition was more favorable. He was resting easy and his mind was perfectly clear.

A FAVORABLE REPORT.

A dispatch received at 2:15 reads as follows: "There is less paralysis in the face, and respiration is normal. Temperature is 93 3-5; pulse, 64. The Governor is better."

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

Governor Bartlett has revived more to-day than it was thought possible when he was stricken down yesterday. At about 5 o'clock this morning he opened his eyes and gazed about him with a questioning look of surprise and doubt which gradually passed away, as he became aware of the presence of the familiar faces about him.

HIS FIRST WORDS WERE:

"I did not expect to see the light of to-day. Yes, I feel somewhat better." The administering of the sacrament on the previous night by Rev. Doctor Beers doubtless tended to deepen the impression upon the invalid's mind of death coming in the night.

HE HAD A GOOD SLEEP.

Between 5 and 10 o'clock he slept well for nearly three hours. At 10 o'clock Rev. Doctor Beers called, and to him the Governor talked freely for about half an hour or more, after which he appeared weary but quite conscious of everything transpiring about him.

NOURISHMENT TAKEN.

By way of nourishment he was given a little melon and egg beaten up in milk. No perceptible change occurred during the afternoon nor up to a late hour to-night. Late this evening his voice seemed clearer than at any time during the day. At midnight he is resting quietly.

NO HOPE AT ALL.

No probability exists in the minds of the Governor's medical attendants, Mrs. Dr. Buckel and Dr. Perry, that he will recover, the utmost that is expected being his probable lingering for a week, while he is liable to be called away at any moment.

WHAT WATERMAN SAYS.

SAN DIEGO, August 24.—Lieutenant-Governor Waterman was interviewed to-day regarding Governor Bartlett's probable fatal illness. He said that it was not fitting for him to make any statement at this time. He regretted exceedingly the Governor's illness and hoped for a favorable termination of it, as he had no desire to assume the Governor's chair under such melancholy conditions. He trusted that the telegraphed reports were exaggerated.

COMMISSIONER PATTISON.

He Speaks About the Central Pacific Investigation.

PHILADELPHIA, August 24.—Ex-Governor Pattison, president of the United States Pacific Railway Commission, arrived here this evening. He was shown a dispatch relative to the message of President Cleveland to employ counsel for the government in the proceedings against Senator Stanford in the San Francisco courts.

THE NOTICE WAS TOO SHORT.

He said that the Commission understood that it could have weeks to meet the case, but the hearing was suddenly precipitated last Wednesday before Judge Field, and notwithstanding the fact that the President had telegraphed to the Commission to employ counsel, it was not able to do so on account of the short notice.

STANFORD'S ARGUMENT.

Senator Stanford argued that he should not be compelled to answer all the questions propounded by the commission, inasmuch as Congress could not delegate its inquisitorial powers to persons outside that body, and for a further alleged reason that the Government being creditors of the Pacific roads it could not demand an account from the company until the maturity of the bonds, which would occur in 1896.

WHAT THE COMMISSION DID.

The Commission filed a brief with the court and it expects a decision to be rendered next week.

Asking for Assistance.

DENVER, Col., August 24.—Governor Adams to-day telegraphed to Secretary Lamar asking him to instruct General Crook to send troops into Garfield and Routt counties with the purpose of driving Colorow and his band of renegade Utes back to the reservation and keeping them there.

SANTA ROSA, August 24.—First race at the Fair Grounds to-day. Mile and repeat, free-for-all—Harrison entered Hello, but was withdrawn on account of lameness. The Laurelwood stables entered Patti, and Eldred named Moonlight.

The race was exciting, the horses being neck and neck. On entering the stretch, the driver of Moonlight commenced to use the whip. Patti was not touched until 100 yards from the wire, when she spurted and won by a short length. Time, 1:44. Patti won by three-quarters of a length.

Second heat, Pattie won by three-quarters of a length, the time again being 1:44. This gave the race to Pattie.

Rose's Dubeck was the only horse that appeared for the three-year-old trotting race. He was speeded and his entrance money returned, to the disappointment of many.

The 2:20 race did not fill.

First heat of the special race for pacers was won by Bunker by two lengths. Haverly second, Etta last. Time, 2:23.

Etta won the second heat by a length, Bunker good second, Haverly away behind. Time, 2:24.

Third heat Etta won by a length over Bunker, Haverly third. Time, 2:24½.

Etta took the lead at the start and won the heat and race, Bunker second, Haverly last. Time was again 2:24¼.

The next race was specially arranged for Old Nick and Kate Ewing. Nick won the first heat by a couple of lengths, Kate second, Homestake third. Time, 2:28¼.

Kate then fairly outfooted Nick and after an exciting struggle won the second heat by two lengths, Homestake far behind. Time, 2:24½.

Third heat—Nick won easily by three lengths, Kate second. Time, 2:24½.

Nominations for State Appointments—The Platforms—Democracy Attacked.

Associated Press Dispatches to the HERALD.

BALTIMORE, August 24.—The State Convention of the Republican party, to nominate candidates for Governor, Comptroller and Attorney-General, met here this afternoon. Temporary organization was effected and the committees on permanent organization and resolutions were appointed, after which a recess was taken to afford time to report.

THE NOMINATIONS.

The following nominations were made: For Governor, W. D. Brooks; Comptroller, R. B. Dixon; Attorney-General, Francis Miller.

After the nominations were made J. K. Cowan, a prominent leader of the reform movement of the Democratic party, was introduced and in a strong speech pledged the Republican ticket the full support of the independent Democrats.

THE PLATFORM.

The platform demands a radical reform in the Civil Service and that the power of removal for cause shall accompany the power of appointment. It declares that the action of the President regarding federal appointments is conclusive evidence that his profession of Civil Service reform is hollow and delusive; that Congress should pass a Blair Education bill or some equivalent and favors some measure for adjusting the difference between capital and labor; for the passage of a law protecting American labor and for the passage of a stringent law against the use of money at elections. The balance of the platform deals with local questions.

AT DES MOINES.

Larrabee and Hall Renominated—Work of the Convention.

DES MOINES, Iowa, August 24.—The Republican State Convention met this morning, and after the appointment of the usual committees, adjourned until 3 o'clock.

RENOMINATIONS.

Governor Larrabee and Lieutenant Hall were renominated by acclamation.

THE PLATFORM.

The following platform was adopted: First clause—That the question of free ballot and honest count in the South is not yet settled; that the suppression of the black man's vote is a national wrong and a bold and wilful attempt to make one vote in the South equal to two in the North. It favors the protection tariff, a practicable reduction of the national and State taxes, the reduction of the revenue laws of the State and advocates strict enforcement and improvement of the Civil Service law. The sixth cause of the platform condemns the administration of Cleveland for its shameful abuse of the Union soldier and the despotic use of the veto power, and the attempt to revive the verdict of the war by the surrender of the rebel battle flags. The tenth clause expresses sympathy with the people's struggle for home rule, whether they be Irish led by Gladstone or the people of this country, deprived of home rule by the partisan injustice of the Democratic party.

DAILY HERALD.

"CORRAL HOLLOW."

Joaquin Murrietta's California Home.

THE CAVE IN WHICH HE LIVED.

How He Murdered and Plundered and Burned Whole Families at the Stake.

Many pamphlets and innumerable columns in newspapers have been written concerning Joaquin Murrietta, the California bandit of early days, but a description of his home in San Joaquin county, which section bears his name, has never been made. From Tracy, a small railroad station about twenty miles below Stockton, extends a road which runs in a southerly direction. Seven long and weary miles of road, extending over a barren waste of deserted country have to be traversed before Corral Hollow, one of the most picturesque spots in the State, is reached. Its entrance is marked by a cluster of cottonwood trees hanging over the mountain stream which flows down the cañon from the Coast range of mountains, its source, about ten miles distant. At its entrance commences a chain of foothills, which extend to the mountains, and add beauty and grandeur to the scene. A road winds along the cañon for about a half a mile, where stands the handsome residence of Mrs. Annie Carrell, one of the oldest residents of the locality. Her house stands back from the road beneath a cluster of trees, and sheds a kind of inviting look to the weary and foot sore traveler. "Her house is known to all the vagrant train." possibly on account of its being the only residence in the cañon. In early days, it was seldom that a pedestrian passed by. The principal travelers were ox and mule teams, which were engaged in hauling provisions to the foot of the Livermore pass about twenty miles distant, where were located a number of gold and coal mines one of which was owned by William T. Coleman. As you pass up the cañon traveling along a well worn road extending parallel with and oftentimes crossing the stream, you finally, about five miles distant, stand in full view of Castle Rock, which stands on a hill on the eastern side of the road, commanding a full view of the surrounding country. As its name would suggest, it resembles very much the appearance of a castle. It is simply a huge body of red rock formed by nature in its present shape, being topped with numerous turrets on towers moulded very evenly, and extending upwards to quite a height. There are apertures in the front which resemble very much the gun-holes in a fort, and in the middle turret there is an opening which looks like a clock tower. A circuitous route has to be taken extending around the back of the hill before the "castle" is gained. The writer, like many hundreds before him in search of the same object, first visited the rear part of the castle as seen from below. There a sight, seldom before witnessed, presented itself to view. There was an opening in the high body of rock, and on either side engraved in the soft stone stood out like letters of gold, autographs of every size and description. Many of the signatures were very legibly written and were put there in many cases by men of prominence who visited the scene. One signature in particular attracted the eye of the writer, for he had often seen it before. It proved to be that of U. S. Grant, who visited Castle Rock on the occasion of his last visit to this State in 1879. A short distance from it, scrolled in a clear, firm hand, stands out the signature of "Joaquin Murrietta." The guide was asked where his cave was and the visitor was shown a protrusion in a huge bank of rock about a hundred yards distant and directly back of where he was standing. A small narrow overhanging path, which looked as though it had been formed as a mule trail led to the spot and without any further ceremony a start was made for the cave. Arriving at the place a square sloped bank of rock presented itself to view. There was an opening in the center at the top of which was a circular hole from the opening of which the horrible hoot of the night owl might be heard casting a rather dismal appearance over the scene. A trunk of a tree leaned against the bank of the rock and extended up to the opening. The guide lighted a lantern which he had provided himself with for the occasion, and with the agility of a squirrel climbed up the wavering timber. The writer hesitated for some moments before he joined his companion but as he saw him disappear from view through the opening he took courage and followed. As he entered a curious sight met his view. He was in a genuine cave, about 20 feet in diameter, with a ceiling about 6½ feet in hight. It was very rough, as from the sides and ceiling huge pieces of rock extended. The floor was very dirty, and on the different pieces of rock extending out were perched a number of owls, who stood hooting and blinking as the strong light from the lantern cast its rays upon them. In one corner a turkey buzzard sat upon a nest of eggs, apparently in mortal terror lest she would be disturbed. On one side of the cave in the room two distinct bunks were chiseled out of the stone, resembling very much the bunks aboard a steamer. On the side of each bunk a hole was dug in the wall as if for shelves to set a lamp on. In one corner stood an old dilapidated cooking stove, such as was used years ago in sheep camps. Beside it was placed an old rickety table, which looked as though it had seen many years of active service. The name of "Jacquin Murrietta" was cut in the table. No property was seen lying around, but the guide stated that every thing of value had been removed by the large number of people who have visited the cave during the past quarter of a century. On leaving the guide told the writer that it was Jœquin's Cave of which he had heard so much about. "I used to heard sheep around here myself," said he, "in those times, and I have often seen Murrietta and talked with him. Many times I have seen him and the other members of his band come up the cañon driving before them a large herd of cattle, which they had stolen somewhere. When in this section of the country Murrietta always slept in that cave. His men used to sleep beneath in order to give the alarm in case the Sheriff was on the trail. He was one of the most murderous villains that ever lived. I remember one night at sunset about twenty years ago I was coming slowly up the creek with my band of sheep before me, when I was horrified by the screams of a woman. I ran up the road as quick as I could. I had not gone far when I saw smoke and flames in the distance. I hurried along and when I got near the house I stopped short, for I knew better than to be seen, for I would certainly have been killed. Joaquin stood near the house that was on fire. Tied to stakes I saw an old man, a woman and three children, and even yet I can hear their appeals for mercy as the flames circled around their helpless bodies. In a few moments nothing was to be seen of the little house nor of its unfortunate victims. I gathered up the bones as best I could and buried them."

The guide then led the way down the creek. Beside a running spring and directly beneath an old oak tree the fellow knelt down, and at the same time pointed to a head board which he said marked the grave. "Come along," said he, "and I will show you the grave of another unfortunate fellow murdered by Joaquin." Another trip was taken down the road and presently a headstone loomed up in the distance. "Here," continued the guide, "lies the remains of a Mexican boy, who was killed by Murrietta. He met his band near the spot one day and approached Murrietta in search of a light and without a moment's warning he shot him down like a dog. He evidently took him for a sheriff, for he passed me often, but never harmed me. He never met a stranger that he didn't kill him. He ran no chances of being captured.

Good News Followed by Dark Shadows.

Hon. Richard Eagan, of San Juan Capistrano, was in the city yesterday, and reports the boom in full blast at that place. The work of railroad building is going on with a rush. Nearly the whole line of the California Central is graded from Santa Ana to Oceanside, where it unites with the California Southern. Track-laying is proceeding at the rate of a mile and a half a day. At that rate, if ties and rails hold out, the cars can reach San Juan by-the-Sea some time next week. It is hoped that the cars will be there in time to return home the city editor of the HERALD and his charming wife, to say nothing of his trained dog, and guns innumerable, and the bear meat and venison that he has bagged in that classic hunting ground. A council of war has been held by all the wild animals, and the said editor has been requested to leave that country, under pain of their high displeasure at himself, his guns and his dog Patrick. He thinks he can hold the fort till the first of September, unless the bears become too demonstrative. The piscatorial exploits of the editor aforesaid are incomparable. His first day's efforts on the briny deep resulted in the capture of 274 barracuda, 33 inches long. After a day's sport on a white boat, with all the glare of a vertical sun, the charms of a seafaring life disappeared, and the manipulator of the pencil took kindly to the ambrosial retreats of the mountains for his daily amusements.

Immense Gold Discovery.

Chillson brothers, of Anaheim, who made a grand discovery of gold and silver in Arizona a few years ago and sold their mine at a round sum, have been for a long time prospecting in the San Jacinto mountains, about ninety miles east of Los Angeles, and have discovered a mammoth gold mine that appears to them to eclipse any gold discovery ever made in the world. Being mining men they did not shout at their first surface discoveries, but went to work in earnest to ascertain the quality of the rock beneath the surface. They accordingly sunk a shaft forty feet deep and found the rock richer in gold as they proceeded downwards. They call the rock worth $70 per ton, while the Grass Valley rock pays at $7 per ton. Some samples which they brought to town yesterday were marvelously rich, going $2,800 per ton.

The ledge is of enormous size and has fallen into the hands of young and enterprising miners who will push the development of it as fast as men and machinery can do it. A stamp mill will be erected as soon as possible and the work of reduction go merrily on. The mountains are well timbered and watered, so that no delay may occur for lack of fuel and water. The mine may be reached from the San Gorgonia station, on the Southern Pacific railway, or from Perris station, on the California Southern, from which place it is about forty miles. Should the discovery "pan out" as expected it will be a great thing for South California.

Wants an Injunction.

The North Pasadena Land and Water Company commenced suit in the Superior Court yesterday against W. H. Thompson to recover $500 damages. The plaintiff alleges that the company supplies a large number of people with water, and it becoming necessary to repair its pipes a force of men were sent to do this. The defendant refused to allow the men to work on a certain piece of land and threatened to shoot them with a shotgun. The plaintiff asks for an injunction preventing the defendant from interfering with the work and to recover $500 damages already incurred.

Treated Their Friends.

Yesterday mornihg the prisoners at the County Jail were treated to a feast which was furnished by Tobe Wilson who had just been released, Tom Ryan and James Harris. These individuals sneaked up to the back of the jail and by climbing on each other's shoulders managed to hand their friends a quantity of edibles, a razor and some other things. They were detected in their friendly offices and were placed behind the bars themselves. Next time they will take eatables to their friends by the front way.

CELERY
TRADE
DELICIOUS & NUTRITIOUS

A Successful Compound.

Dr. Henley's Celery, Beef and Iron has been most effectively shown to be the best agent in counteracting various diseases of which humanity is subject, consisting in part of debility, indigestion, malarial fever, gastric irritability, insomnia, loss of appetite, etc. There is nothing repugnant about taking Celery, Beef and Iron; on the contrary, it is deliciously palatable, and is a remedy all persons afflicted with the above troubles should try at once. Celery, Beef and Iron can be obtained at all druggists.

A Pretty Woman's Secret.

Fear of discovery, when she resorts to false hair and dyes, is a source of constant anxiety to her. The very persons from whom she most desires to hide the waning of her charms are the ones most likely to make the discovery. But there is no reason why she should not regain and retain all the beauty of hair that was her pride in youth. Let her use AYER'S HAIR VIGOR, and, not only will her hair cease to fall out, but a new growth will appear where the scalp has been denuded; and locks that are turning gray, or have actually grown white, will return to their pristine freshness and brilliance of color. AYER'S HAIR VIGOR cures

Hereditary Baldness.

GEORGE MAYER, Flatonia, Texas, was bald at 23 years of age, as his ancestors had been for several generations. One bottle of HAIR VIGOR started a growth of soft, downy hair all over his scalp, which soon became thick, long, and vigorous.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

is not a dye, but, by healthful stimulation of the roots and color glands, speedily restores to its original color hair that is

Turning Gray.

MRS. CATHERINE DEAMER, Point of Rocks, Md., had her hair suddenly blanched by fright, during the late civil war. AYER'S HAIR VIGOR restored it to its natural color, and made it softer, glossier, and more abundant than it had been before.

Scalp Diseases

Which cause dryness, brittleness, and falling of the hair, dandruff, itching, and annoying sores, are all quickly cured by AYER'S HAIR VIGOR. It cured HERBERT BOYD, Minneapolis, Minn., of intolerable Itching of the Scalp; J. N. CARTER, JR., Occoquan, Va., of Scald Head; MRS. D. V. S. LOVELACE, Lovelaceville, Ky., of Tetter Sores; MISS BESSIE H. BEDLOE, Burlington, Vt., of Scalp Disease and Dandruff. Torpidity of the roots of the hair, which, if neglected, may result in incurable baldness, is readily cured by AYER'S HAIR VIGOR. As

A Toilet Luxury

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR has no equal. It is colorless, cleanly, delightfully perfumed, and has the effect of making the hair soft, pliant, and glossy.

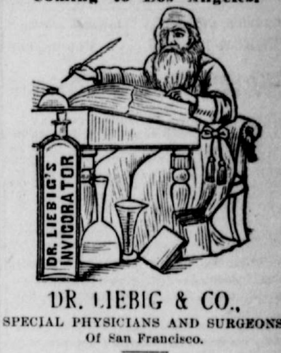
Coming to Los Angeles!



DR. LIEBIG & CO.,
SPECIAL PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS,
Of San Francisco.

The above well known and long established specialists will be at 267½ MAIN ST., Rose Block, Los Angeles, from September 10th to the 20th, 10 days only, where all who are suffering from nervous debility, chronic or complicated diseases, spermatorrhea, impotency, loss of manhood, premature decay, and all complaints resulting from youthful folly, abuse and excesses of maturity, or badly treated cases of special or private nature, will be afforded the opportunity to consult with these celebrated specialists. Consultation free and private.

The Liebig Dispensary for the treatment of all chronic, private and complicated diseases has been established in San Francisco for nearly a quarter of a century. The Dispensary building occupies the entire corner of Geary and Mason streets, San Francisco, and is the only Medical and Surgical Institute on the Pacific coast that has its own elegant drug store in dispensary building, employing registered chemists and scientific surgical instrument makers to manufacture all surgical instruments for the patients of the Liebig Dispensary; also to prepare the celebrated Dr. Liebig's wonderful German Invigorator. To the marvelous cures and discoveries made by Dr. Liebig & Co. are due all the great successes they have had. In 1881 they discovered the complication Prostatorrhœa, resulting from youthful imprudence and excesses of maturity, or unskillfully treated cases of a special nature, that from time immemorial had prevented thousands from being cured of nervous debility, physical weakness and unnatural losses from the system. Dr. Liebig & Co. use every successful remedial agent known to modern scientists favoring the school of Homeopathy and Eclecticism, taking from the Allopathic all that is useful, and adapting surgical instruments to the various ailments and deformities, attaching to appliances, magnetism and electricity. Successful treatment guaranteed in all cases or no fees required.

SURGICAL BRANCH.

The doctors will give personal attention to diseases of the Chest, Head and Throat, Catarrh, diseases of the Liver and Kidneys; also deformities requiring surgical appliances. Balance of treatment conducted from the Liebig Dispensary, San Francisco, Cal.

N.B.—On account of the rapidly increasing practice in San Francisco, this will be the doctor's last visit to Los Angeles.

Texas and Temperance.

Some things are positively memorable from their surroundings alone. When the Prohibition party went into Texas—the Lone Star State—the State of Davy Crockett — there was the sublimity of audacity in the act. It was carrying out the very inspiration of Danton, "To dare, to dare, always to dare." It is true that this hazardous Southern crusade had been led up to by Prohibition successes in Georgia and other Southern States, and even in Texas local option and high license had prevailed. Still those who had followed the career of Davy Crockett were somewhat astonished at the pluck of our water-drinking friends in Texas. They had recalled the peculiar election tactics of the hero and victim of the Alamo. He had given one of the keynotes of current politics and of political ethics in the memorable phrase, "Be sure you're right and then go ahead." Every inch of his very robust manhood was honest to his square toes. In those old, robust days, however, in which a man had to be a great deal of a man to hold his own at all, Davy Crockett made his Congressional campaign in Texas with a whisky bottle in one pocket and a plug of tobacco in the other. When he met a farmer ploughing in a field he invited him to take a drink, which necessitated the discarding by Agricola of his quid of tobacco. No sooner had the whisky been absorbed than Davy hauled out his plug of tobacco from the other pocket and requested his interlocutor, perhaps supporter, for such methods were very persuasive in Texas in the early days, to take a "chaw." Quite evidently the spirit of Davy Crockett is still abroad in the almost unlimited Texas land. Who shall say but that the subtle influence of this heroic Texan was potential in the contest which resulted in favor of personal liberty? Dropping persiflage, the result of the Texas election on prohibition probably marks a new departure in the South as to prohibition legislation. Temperance by law established would seem to many persons unattainable, and not to be desired, if attained through coercive methods. Cast-iron, perfunctory and compulsory virtue is a phase of a great sumptuary law debate as old as the hills. Every right-minded man desires to see the cause of genuine temperance triumph. But the Roman Catholic church, which enjoins celibacy on its ministers, is careful not to reduce them to the condition of eunuchs. While the oldest Christian church believes, with St. Paul, in continence in its ministers, it believes in the continence which is voluntary, not enforced. It was a very witty as well as wise man who said that he would rather be drunk from choice than sober from necessity. It is this ineradicable sentiment of the human heart that the Apostles of Sobriety as By Law Established will have to fight.

Meanwhile, it is pleasant for Californians to know that the true temperance crusade is proceeding from this section in the production of light and wholesome wines which will replace the strong and distempering liquors of Davy Crockett's days.

THE Boston Journal pleads with a Democratic contemporary to answer with calmness and candor these conundrums: "Of what politics are all but one or two of the New York boodle aldermen? Of what political stripe is the city government of Brooklyn, which the Eagle so furiously denounces? Of which State Committee is the District Attorney, under whose administration pool-sellers and other offenders have gone free, a member? What political party do McGarrigle and most of the Chicago boodlers adorn? The election conspirators in Baltimore, in Indianapolis, in Columbus, in Cincinnati, in Chicago, were they not all Democrats?"—Los Angeles Times.

The old adage runs that any fool can ask a question, but it requires a wise man to answer it. It therefore involves nerve to struggle up to an interrogation point, but we can't help asking to what party James G. Blaine, Robeson, Creswell, McKee, Boss Shepherd and others belong? Dropping the Fort Scott and Little Rock Railway, and other matters, ancient but fishlike, and coming down to California, we would like to know to what party John S. Gray, Dods of Oakland, Kays of Alameda county, Stuart of San Francisco, and other bright particular stars belong? By the way, to what party did the bold vacquero of San Fernando, the hell-roaring and grace savoring El Hammond belong? We understand that he is abroad in the country with some stray funds belonging to Los Angeles county. But we have said enough to point a Republican moral and adorn a Republican tale of delinquence on a scale national and local. We would suggest to our contemporary that while speech is silvern silence is golden.

IT should be pleasing to the friends of Gov. Bartlett to note the wide and genuine grief at his perilous state of health. After having secured a model Executive the people cannot look with any patience upon the prospect of losing him.

THE late wheat deal in San Francisco seems to have cut deep into the pockets of the bonanza crowd. However, it is an ill-wind that blows good to no one. The farmers of California have come out largely ahead in consequence of the corner, while the consumer is not injured a whit.

IT will be a happy day for the world, and for the farmer particularly, when silver shall regain its old relation to gold. Cheap silver means cheap wheat. All the transactions with India are managed in that metal, and when the merchant of Leadenhall street and of Liverpool can buy his silver at a big discount his dealings with the ryots of India at once expand. Even in England, however, there is at last a movement to restore bi-metalism, with the President of the Bank of England at its head.

THERE is a cloud of war upon the European horizon which, though no larger than a man's hand, may shortly cover the entire heavens. Poor Ferdinand is not likely to find his Bulgarian throne a bed of roses. He is liable to find himself in the predicament of the Irishman in the farce who was discharged before he was hired. There have been so many rumors of wars of late years that it is high time the ruction should begin in earnest, and it would be rather pleasant to see Russia lead off by smashing the treaty of Berlin.

THE New York Times has lately given some attention to Mr. Mason's assessment of Los Angeles county. Our New York contemporary thinks that there is something peculiar in an advance of one hundred and forty-seven per cent. in the Assessor's figures. The HERALD has already put itself on record to the same effect. It is probably the most eccentric thing that was ever done by an official. But the Times is wrong in its deductions. There is no bubble here. The only strange thing about it all is that Los Angeles county should have been cursed with such an Assessor. The taxpayers are perfectly willing to have their property assessed at the old modest figures.

A GREAT deal of very natural surprise has been expressed amongst Democrats at the remarkable falling off in the Democratic majority in the Kentucky election. And thereby hangs a tale. It appears that there is a strong prohibition sentiment in Kentucky, and that Gov. Buckner had identified himself with the personal liberty element. At the August election of a year ago twenty-four counties voted on Prohibition, and the question was carried in twenty-two out of the twenty-four counties. Gov. Buckner's own county, Hart, decided for prohibition. He consequently lost a great many temperance votes which otherwise would have been recorded for him. Thus, while Governor Buckner cannot boast the large majority which some of his Democratic predecessors have received, he can certainly rear his head high amongst his fellows, towering as a very Saul, and knowing that he represents the Democratic idea in essence, which believes in allowing a man to regulate his own habits. It is a favorite notion amongst a great many people that Prohibition is destined to sweep this country. This is a great mistake. That movement has already reached and passed its flood-tide. The Texas election marked the point of retrocession of the waves. Hereafter, in the United States, intelligent effort will be directed towards national schemes of licensing and policing the liquor traffic.

AMERICAN TOOLS ABROAD.

[London Iron.]

"Our American contemporaries have every cause to be surprised at the astonishing fact that thousands of tons of scrap iron are every year taken to the United States and there converted into the simplest of American manufactures, the sad or laundry iron, and then exported back to Europe at no small profit. There is no corner in Europe where American small cast hardware is not on sale. The tool makers and machinists of Europe—such as Krupp, of Germany; Whitworth and Armstrong, of England, and Hotchkiss, of France, with their vast resources—are unable to produce a Moncky or screw-bar wrench equal to the American wrenches, and consequently they have to import these tools from the States. It is stated that there are no less than 80,000 dozen of them exported to Europe alone every year. It is interesting to note that Charles Moncky, the inventor of this screw-bar wrench, received only $2000 for his patent, and is now living at Williamsburg, Brooklyn, in a small cottage bought from the proceeds of this sale. In the matter of the common pocket boxwood rules, also, the American manufacturers so far excel all others that, if not all European nations, certainly all nations outside of Europe are supplied from America. The manufacturers there print on the rule whatever of measurement is followed by the country for which the goods are intended. American augers and auger bits are used the world over, no other nation being able to compete. The Americans, with such facts before them, may well be proud of their manufacturers.

"Do you swear?" asked a ministerial-looking man of a sailor on the dock. "Partly often," was the reply. "Drink?" "—m—yes. I git dry onct in a while." "Gamble?" "Well, when th' v'yage's over I shake a few dices." "Chew tobacco?" "Look here, shipmate, ain't you gittin' kind'r cur'ous?" "Answer me that; do you chew tobacco?" "Wa'al, yes, I do." "That's what I wanted to get at, and I meant to do it in a soothing, gentlemanly way, as it were. Gimme a chew, will you?"—[Puck.

A junior member of the wealthy Rothschild family, who had heard about the price of land out West, visited this country some years ago. In a San Francisco barber shop he was shaved, had his hair cut, shampooed, etc., for which he was charged $2. "This is a queer country," said young Rothschild afterward to a friend; "a shave here costs two acres of land." [—Epoch.

SUNKEN TREASURE.

[Easton Ledger.]

On a monument in the old St. Peter's Protestant Episcopal Cemetery in Lewes, Del., the following inscription is pointed out to summer visitors:

> Here rest the remains of Captain James Drew, who commanded his Brittannic Majesty's sloop-of-war De Braak, in which he lost his life when she foundered at the Capes of Delaware the 10th of June, 1798. He was beloved for his virtues and admired for his bravery. His affectionate relict has erected this monument to perpetuate his memory.

This epitaph, not unlike many others, fails to tell the truth as history has revealed it, for Captain Drew did not command His Britanic Majesty's sloop-of-war when he lost his life at the capes, but was on a privateering cruise, which was but little removed from piracy itself. England was coping with Napoleon both on land and water at that time, and George III. was in dire distress for money. Hence he granted letters of marque and reprisal to all that asked for them. James Drew, who belonged to a bold but impecunious family of Irish sailors, secured such letters in January, 1795, and promptly sailed for the Spanish main on the brig De Braak, which was equipped with a dozen brass cannon and manned by thirty-eight officers and men.

On May 25th the De Braak appeared off Cape Henlopen, having in tow the Spanish galleon La Plate. She was bound for Halifax, the captain told Pilot Andrew Allen, of Lewes, who had been taken on board from the pilot boat Friendship, but was constrained to come here for water. The captain was in a hilarious mood. He had had good luck, he said, and the pilot must drink to his health. But a storm was brewing in the southwest. Ominous clould were looming up behind Rehobeth, and so, while the captain had gone down into the cabin for another bumper, Pilot Allen ordered the light sails clewed up. When the captain returned to the deck and noted what had been done he ordered the sails sheeted home again, and turning to Allen with an oath, said: "You look out for the bottom and I'll look out for the spars."

The De Braak was then rounding Henlopell. A minute later she was brought to and a boat lowered to allow her captain to go ashore. Several sailors had dropped into the boat, and Captain Drew was about to step down when a furious gust of wind struck the sloop, threw her on her beam ends, and the portholes being open, she filled and sank instantly. Pilot Allen sprank from the De Braak's deck into the boat and broke his leg, but he lived many years afterward to tell this tragic story of the De Braak's disaster. Captain Drew, his lieutenants, and thirty-eight men, including fifteen prisoners taken from the La Plate, went to the bottom. Twenty-five men were picked up alive by other boats. The rescued men bemoaned the loss of the countless treasure of gold and silver and diamonds that had gone down in the De Braak. They said that they had taken two Spanish galleons with millions of dollars worth of precious metals, bound from Peru and Mexico for Spain. They paid their bills in half doubloons, of which they said they had many caskets full in the hold of the De Braak.

The efforts to locate and recover this lost treasure have been many and began seventy-five years ago. It is in the memory of some of our old people that about the date of our second war with England an English frigate and a sloop came here and tried to raise the De Braak. It is also said that this frigate "bridled the wreck with its stoutest hawsers and never budged her."

Modern divers and suction engines hope to have better luck. The story of the effort goes that about 1805 Gilbert McCrackin, the chum of Pilot Allen, in company with his son Henry, "set the bearing of the wreck for the purpose of aiding some future effort." These bearings were, of course, faithfully recorded, and the document is in the possession of a grandson of one of them.

For the purpose of securing this sunken treasure, the International Submarine company, of Philadelphia, was formed some years ago. The bulk of its stock is owned at present by Dr. Samuel Pancoast, of Philadelphia, a gentleman about seventy years old, who is very sanguine of finding the De Braak and her valuable freight.

The schooner Orr, after much preparation, was on the first of the month brought down from Philadelphia by the tug Startle. It had a working force of ten men, under command of the doctor, pumping apparatus and a couple of expert divers. Everything then was in readiness to begin work as the doctor had located the wreck to his own satisfaction in the mouth of Delaware Bay. The bottom is covered with a semi-soft blue clay and ooze everywhere, except where a ten-foot mound of sand has collected, covering an area of 100x50 feet lying lengthwise from cape to cape. This is the mound of record. On it was found a dumb buoy, made of an ordinary nail keg, anchored by a galganized wire, and bit of "pig." Over the mound the water is about sixty feet deep, and this buoy floated about ten feet below the surface of the sea.

The divers have been at work on the De Braak's grave a great deal of late. What have they found? Handfuls of decayed wood. The washer is being industriously worked this week, and the mound has been penetrated to a depth of half a dozen feet all over. Now a powerful suction pump will be put to work and will deposit the woody sand on the deck of the Orr, where the doctor will sieve it carefully.

The doctor says the golden treasures were, when last seen, snugly packed up in heavy oaken iron-bound boxes about three feet each way. To remove these the doctor has a large steam crane aboard. When the vessel sank she had a full armament of heavy guns. These will be presented to the Society of the Cincinnati. In fact, the final disposition of everything found has been decided upon, even to the treasure.

"I expect to find from $5,000,000 to (7,000,000 worth of precious metal," the doctor says. "Yet the amount depends upon the number of Spanish galleons captured by the De Braak. A galleon usually contained some $3,000,000, and I estimate that during the last years of the last century Spanish America sent home not less than $96,000,000 annually."

One-half of the find is to be his.

GENERAL GLEANINGS.

Received Over the Wires of the Associated Press.

The resignation of William R. Crowell, Vice-President of the Phœnix Insurance Company of Brooklyn, was accepted yesterday. George Sheldon was chosen in his stead. The following were elected on the Board of Directors: Austin Corbin, Henry W. Maxwell, William B. Kendall and Andre Knowlton. Up to the present time the business of the company has included three branches: Fire, marine and inland. Inasmuch as fire insurance has been exceedingly profitable and the company has lost money in its marine business, the board proposes to confine its business hereafter to fire and inland business.

Owing to the fact that the last Australian steamer refused to wait for the delayed overland mails at San Francisco, the company has been notified that in case of mail detention they must, upon receipt of three hours' notice, delay the sailing of the steamer thirty-six hours. If the mail is still on the road, the company, on receipt of the proper information, must further delay the departure of the steamer for six days.

The International Stove Moulders' Union has determined upon demanding an advance in wages of from 10 to 15 per cent. all over the United States and Canada. There are 13,000 registered members of the Union.

A Novel Balloon.

John Heatley, of Pittsburg, Pa., has been for twenty years studying aerial navigation, and now has a model of a balloon having the outlines of a bird in flight. It suggests the idea of two large umbrellas, without handles, joined to each other mouth to mouth, forming exteriorly what resembles somewhat, though not closely, a double convex figure. The inner material is to be linen, saturated with chemicals to render it non-combustible. This is covered with oiled silk, on the outside of which is the netting. Attached to and below the car, or basket, is a circular canvas boat, to be used in case the balloon should fall into water. The diameter of the balloon is from twenty-five to thirty feet. There are ribs or stays which make the frame compact when inflated. This is effected by heated air, steam and ammonia. Hanging from the car is a cube about the diameter of the boat, through which extends a tube about twenty feet long. The tube contains a small furnace. In the car is a barrel filled with water. Mr. Heatley's theory provides that the water shall be allowed to drop in small quantities on the furnace, where it is instantly converted into steam, and ascending, renews the supply in the ballon. At the same time a current is created which causes the condensed steam to descend, following the direction of the original current. It is collected into a tube, whence it falls in turn upon the furnace, where it is again converted into steam. Again, part of the steam generated as described is sent through the long tube mentioned, where, by the force of its exit through apertures on one side or another, it enables the operator to steer the ship. It is not designed that this air-ship shall attain a great altitude, but that it shall reach say a height of half a mile or less. Mr. Heatley says he has been studying the habits of birds in flight, and has also observed those Chinese toy flying kites, bird-shaped, and his balloon is the embodiment of the ideas thus received.

ABOUT COSMETICS.

Cleanliness is the One Absolute and Universal Cosmetic.

[From Harper's Bazaar.]

Never was there such a climate as ours. To-day a polar wind rushes shivering from the frozen north over leagues of snow to shrivel Araminths's delicate skin and force the blood to the chilled surface, till its fine red and white are purple; to-morrow the ardent sun burns the end of her tip-tilted nose; next day a vicious zephyr sweeps up the gritty dust of the pavement in great swirls and eddies, rushing it into her face like some malicious imp of the air; then follows an unexpected flood, giving her wet clothes, a cold and indigestion, and resultant pimples. And these vagaries precede months of dry, parching heat, that leaves a legacy of tan sunburn and freckles.

As if the odds against beauty were not heavy enough, these foes without are reinforced by foes within. Furnace heat and flaring gas, bad ventilation, late hours, and late suppers, all injure the delicacy of the skin. An American woman past thirty who has kept the bloom and brillancy of her girlhood is almost as rare as the dodo.

In this extremity it is not strange that women look to cosmetics to repair the ravages of climate and custom, and that the use of these hazardous allies is rapidly increasing. Gotgeous "parlors" abound in our large cities where to proprietary spiders allure the silly flies of fashion that buzz and shine only to be seen. In these retreats a whole new outfit of beauty may be purchased cheap for cash. A new bust, newly tapered fingers with (practically) new nails, new hair, new eyebrows, new feet, and a brand-new complexion, are a few of the tempting wares offered. The fountain of youth is now bottled, labelled and sold at retail in small quantities. Newspapers spread a knowledge of this industry to the farthest hamlet, and Alaska and Arizona send orders for Beauty's Benefaction and Cleopatra's Complexion Cream.

If it were only a question of money wasted and folly enlightened it would not be worth while to preach upon this text, perhaps. But probably nine out of every ten of the cosmetics in the market are positively harmful. White lead, bismuth, arsenic and other powerful poisons are the usual base. They impart for a time an artificial bloom, always followed by a darkening and coarsening of the grain of the skin. The habitual use of arsenic in pills, wafers or solutions results in a disturbance of the circulation, a weakened action of the heart, and not seldom in paralysis.

The Egyptian and Roman ladies, who were so famous for their beauty of complexion, are said, indeed, to have used pastes and unguuts and medicated baths. But it is probable that their cosmetics were of the simplest, the equivalent of our harmless rose-water and glycerine for the soothing of an irritated surface or the whitening of the hands. It is certain that the efficacy of the bath lay in their frequency and thoroughness. To an Egyptian princess or Roman noble's wife, we moderns, with ou morning's hasty dip into a tub of tepid water, would rank with the great unwashed. From the scalding and ringing and scraping and rubbing end kneading and oiling that their bathing involved they came forth with skins of velvet, because every atom of waste was removed and every organ in the body was maintained at its full eliminative power. They changed their body-linen every day as well, and by this scrupulous cleanliness offset in some degree their sins against the stomach.

Among moderns, English women as a rule, possess in youth and keep till age the finest complexions. Their climate is kind to them. Its perpetual moisture seems to keep them in perpetual bloom as it does their wonderful roses. But besides their climate, their customs favor them. English girls are kept in the nursery or the school-room, free from the excitement of late hours, rich food, adult society, fashionable dress or habits, till their constitutions are established and their physique developed. The simple food, daily bath, hours spent out-of-doors, on foot or on horseback, and uneventful life, give them sound stomachs, hearty livers, and tranquil nerves, and the beautiful coloring is a matter of course.

It cannot be said too strongly that health is the only safe renovator of the complexion. Cleanliness is the one universal cosmetic. And if the women of this generation have lost their freshness through carelessness or ignorance, or spite of climate, they can, at least, rear their daughters to preserve that inheritance of beauty to which most Americans are born.

A Perilous Postponement.

To postpone, when the duty for immediate action is clear, is always unwise. Especially is it so when increasing ill health calls for a resort to medication. Diseases of the kidneys and bladder are often of swift growth—always of fatal tendency if not combatted at the outset. We have all—even those of us who are not remarkably well instructed—heard something of the danger attending Bright's disease, diabetes, and other diseases of the kidneys or bladder. Let no one be foolhardy enough to procrastinate if he perceives the renal organs to be inactive. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters are peculiarly adapted to overcome this inaction, and sufficiently stimulate, without exciting, the kidneys and bladder. Infinitely is this diuretic to be preferred to the impure and fiery stimulants of commerce, which prove the bane of unwary persons with a tendency to renal troubles. They are likewise incomparable for dyspepsia, debility, fever and ague, and biliousness.

Catarrh, Hay or Rose Fever.

The cleansing, soothing and healing properties of Darby's Prophylactic Fluid are experienced in the treatment and cure of Catarrh and kindred complaints. The Fluid soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and removes the offensive odor that characterizes the disease. DAILY HERALD.

PROGRESS AT ANAHEIM.

An Interesting Budget of News Notes.

The people of Anaheim, through their town trustees, have completed negotiations to purchase 8000 feet of water pipe to lay down in the corporate limits of the town. This will arrive at an early day and be utilized at once. The two new tanks, to hold 80,000 gallons of water, are about complete, and when those improvements are made and the water laid on all the principal streets, and these streets well watered two or three times a day, it will be much to the betterment of the town.

The hotel syndicate are drawing near to a conclusion as to what plans they shall adopt. Mr. Newsom has a set of plans for a fine hotel to the fore, and Mr. Pelton was again in the "Old Colony" yesterday, submitting his final drafts of plans. It was confidently expected that there would be a selection made either yesterday afternoon or this morning. At any rate, within ten days the contract for a $50,000 hotel will be let, and in ninety days its doors will open for the reception of guests. It will be none too soon.

A great syndicate of Pasadena boomers are now carrying on very earnest negotiations for the purchase of the Olinda ranch, better known as the Shanklin ranch. It is all but a settled matter that these negotiations will end in a transfer of the property. In such an event that wide area of fine land will go into strong hands, thoroughly able to develope all its resources. Already the sharp exploiters from the crown of the valley have got into "mothern colony" and made large purchases. Olinda will be a great settlement at once in the hands of these men.

The two-story brick building of the Backs Bros. is finished and will soon be occupied.

Mr. Conrad, the Anaheim brewer, finds so much demand for his toothsome malt that he has a very large addition going forward to his plant.

The wine makers in and about Anaheim have all their preparations complete to handle the vintage, and on September 1st they will begin to crush grapes.

Orange, not satisfied with the magnificent Palmyra, is now reaching out for a second hotel. A syndicate has been formed to do the business, and $25,000 is to the fore for the work. So goes on the great work of building up the country at all points of the compass.

More Iron Works.

Doubting Thomases have feared that it would be unprofitable to increase the iron manufactures in this city on account of the lack of iron ore. This doubt and fear might as well be terminated at once and forever. The two great mountains of iron ore eighteen miles south of Newberry Station, on the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad, in San Bernardino county, will furnish all the ore that Los Angeles will need for a thousand years.

This great aggregation of iron was discovered by Judge J. A. Owens and H. W. Lake last June. They sent the ore to San Francisco, where it was analyzed by Professor Thomas L. Price, who found it to be a magnetic oxyde of iron, with traces of silver and gold. It may be that there is enough of these two precious metals to pay for smelting the iron.

A branch track of the A. & P. railway could be speedily laid to the mine. A spring of water is about twelve miles distant where smelting works could be erected. When the new railway from Salt Lake City to Los Angeles is made cheap coal can be taken to the mine and an immense business established. The consumption of iron and steel in the western country is increasing so rapidly that there is no danger of over-production of these products. Besides, the quality of the ore is said to be very fine and will make a superior quality of iron, such as is needed in articles in use by the fruit-growers of California. It is to be hoped that this great iron mountain will be speedily utilized.

When the Flowing Tide Comes In.

A HERALD reporter yesterday encountered a very intelligent newcomer who hails from Dakota and is also well acquainted in Minneapolis and St. Paul. When he bought his ticket at Omaha for Los Angeles to come by a regular passenger train it took him twenty minutes to get up to the window of the ticket office from the time he took his place in line. He reports that it is no uncommon occurrence for people to be obliged to remain over a whole day at some of the cardinal points because they have not time to get their tickets, so great is the crush of travelers, and nearly all of them are coming to California. This is in summer, and it is this gentleman's deliberate opinion that when winter sets in it will be impossible to accommodate the throngs who will seek the shores of the sunset sea. In Minneapolis and St. Paul the entire population of both cities seems to be making preparations for this higera to the Pacific.

An Abstracter's Strike.

A strike of some of the copyists employed on abstract work by Mr. Berris of the Downey block, took place yesterday morning. For some weeks past Mr. Berris has been unable to pay his employés their weekly salaries in full, owing to the complex state of his business affairs, and yesterday the clerks determined to obtain their money at all hazards. His full force, numbering some twenty members, agreed to combine together for this purpose, but only ten of them presented themselves at Mr. Berris' office when the hour appointed arrived. Mr. Berris was not at all disconcerted by their appearance, promptly paid them the amounts due. with the exception of some unchecked work which will be paid for hereafter, and then informed the delegates that their services would be dispensed with from that time on, and so ended the affair which for an hour or so caused quite a lively agitation in the court house yesterday.

Hurry Up

And secure lots in the Seitz tract before the whole of this beautiful property is taken up. Free ride from Russell, Cox & Co.'s 132 West First street.

A Road to La Canada.

There is a movement on foot among our Cañada neighbors to establish a good road either to Los Angeles or to Pasadena. Already considerable work has been expended on the roadway leading through Dreyfus Cañon, with a view to reaching Los Angeles. This, however, has been lying dormant for some time, owing to a lack of ready means, and also to the fact that the majority of the people in that valley would prefer to come to Pasadena, if it were possible. In the past few months a number of Pasadena citizens have invested largely in La Cañada property, and an effort is being made now both by these gentlemen and the more enterprising of the residents there to construct a good roadbed, bridge the arroyo above the Devil's Gate, and find a convenient market at Pasadena. This would be a splendid move for all concerned.

Four-fifths of our wood comes from La Cañada, and with her abundant advantages—rich soil, fine climate, pure water, there is no reason why she should not supply the Pasadena markets with fruit and vegetables. These we believe will immediately follow the construction of a first-class highway, and in the course of time as this valley fills up, which it must do, Pasadena will derive a great advantage from this trade. We hope the matter in hand will succeed and trust that the business men of this city who will reap the advantages will not be slow in assisting the enterprise. We have the advantage over Los Angeles if we occupy the ground. If we do not we may be sure that Los Angeles will. On general principles this line of policy carried faithfully out for ten years would make Pasadena the center point for all the surrounding valleys. It would be a stroke of policy and one on which we could well afford to invest some "shekels." There is no time like the present for taking hold of anything which we mean to push, and those most interested will realize that now while the iron is hot is the time to strike.

DAILY HERALD.

AN UTTER ERROR.

"Land Speculation in Southern California."

Under the caption of "Land Speculation in Southern California," the Shreveport, Louisiana, Times of recent date quotes as follows from the Dallas, Texas, News:

"Reports which have been published from tourists have made mention of the process of cutting up ranches into town lots, cutting down orange trees and uprooting vines in order to put the lots into shape for disposal to Eastern buyers. Numerous people have gone to the neighborhood of Los Angeles with speculative views. Many others, it is understood, are sending money to be invested for a rise. These ventures can be regarded with comparative coolness here in Texas, as presumably no great amount of the money of Texas is involved in them. People away up toward New York and Boston, and in other parts of the North, are the most numerous portion, it is understood, among those who are sending their funds for the speculative investments alluded to. Of course there will be a collapse. Many, however, do not care so much about that, provided they can buy while the boom is on and sell again before the eagerness to buy shall have reached its climax. For those who will speculate, no matter what moral or general considerations may be urged against doing so, the chief thing is to get pointers showing how high the booming tendency is likely to go. A private letter received from a former resident of Texas gives his recent experience. He had bought a few acres near Los Angeles four years ago at about $20 per acre. Four months ago he sold the small tract for $10,000. Now he observes it is salable by the succeeding owner at $16,000. The rise in this instance is phenomenally rapid. Taken in connection with the great extent of land being laid out in town lots—enough to make one of the largest cities on the continent, and that in a place where there is no rational prospect or use for a very large city—the rapidity of the recent rise in prices being at once an indication of the feverish stage and a fresh incentive to the laying out of more lots, must show that the culmination of this extraordinary boom is likely to be measured by weeks or months. If the case cited be an average, a boom which in four months runs up lands from the price of $800 an acre to over $1200 an acre for prospective building purposes where there is plenty more land offered for the same purposes must be measurably within some moderate time limit, assuming that the prices reached cannot be maintained upon a basis of any real and permanent use to which the property might be put. It is for the speculatively disposed person to calculate for himself the rate at which the iron which he thinks of grasping is getting hot, and what will be the prospect of having to drop it ruefully, for as soon as confidence is destroyed the downward rush of speculative values, so-called, is usually very rapid in those cases where they have gone far beyond what use will sustain."

Commenting on this, the Shreveport paper goes on to say on its own account the following, in the same strain:

"The Times has repeatedly warned the people of Shreveport, who have been allured from their pleasant homes by the rapid advance in real estate in certain parts of California. There are a number of citizens who, being influenced by the gains in investments of their friends already in California, are making preparations to sell out their homes, to move to the speculative fields in that State. They should bear in mind that there is a limit to all things in this mundane sphere, no matter how brilliant, and the wild speculative scheme now raging in California must come to an end sooner or later.

It is conceded that the climate of California is one of the most glorious in the world, especially for a certain class of invalids, but people of robust health cannot subsist on air alone. California is also renowned for orange and fruit groves and vineyards, but lacks in the necessary agricultural requisites to maintain the cities that have been mapped out on paper. In our opinion the cutting down of orange and fruit groves and vineyards and the dividing of ranches into town lots for speculative purposes will hasten the collapse of the California boom which has already influenced too many of our best citizens to forsake their homes and friends in their eagerness to accumulate fortunes. When the climax is reached it is to be hoped that the Shreveport people now in California and those that may go there soon, will not suffer from the financial crash."

The HERALD is read a great deal both in Dallas and in Shreveport. For the benefit of its readers, of the public generally and of the editors of papers in that part of the country particularly, there is this to say:

First, It will not make much difference what the papers there have to say of California. Their own readers know they cannot speak ex cathedra on the subject. They do not know the elements in the case, and therefore are not prepared to speak intelligently.

Second, So many people are now resident of this section who were formerly of Texas and Louisiana that anyone contemplating removing from there to here would not fail to avail themselves of the advice of some friend or acquaintance already on the spot, who can speak of South California from actual knowledge. It is to such sources a practical person would turn for advice.

When eastern papers speak of California as possessed of a fine climate and nothing more; as being suited to orange culture, but not to general agricultural pursuits; of people living on air; of the rapid rise in land being a certain prognostication of collapse—they are talking at random, and they are talking nonsense.

California has a good climate, and for this she will be sought for all time to come by invalids, valetudinarians and people of generally weak constitutions. But her atttrations even on the score of climatic salubriousness does not end with the people who are not robust. The most healthy specimen of the race could hardly prefer to live amid cyclones and blizzards, in swamps and flooded river bottoms rather than in a land of perpetual sunshine, and equable temperature.

Now, as to living on air, that is all the grossest of rank misconceptions. Los Angeles and Southern California is not restricted in her resources to oranges, or even to fruit culture in general, including grapes. From this county there is going forward with more or less continuity to the states on the eastern side of the Rockies large quantities of potatoes, cabbages, onions, peas, and other vegetables. California, and Southern California at that, supplies St. Louis and Milwaukee with large amounts of barley and hops for use in their breweries. Los Angeles county produces 45,000 short tons of wheat in the worst years, which is equal to 1,500,000 bushels. How many counties in Texas and Louisiana combined produce as much? There are thousands of acres in this county which turn out 100 bushels of corn to the acre. How much of the area of the Lone Star or of the Creole States makes as good a return to the tiller of the soil? Wide areas of our land yield ten and even twelve tons of alfalfa hay a year, which is worth in the field $10 per ton. Can any Texan or Louisiana farmer "eat air" to such a comfortable tune? For the information of editors along the lower Mississippi it may be well to state that alfalfa is a sort of lucerne, and that six or eight crops a year are cut in this country.

There is no use, gentlemen. You may as well start in to preach to your own grand river to run up hill as to prevent people from leaving you to come to us. You attempt the impossible in one case as well as in the other. It is a law of nature as clearly defined, and one might say as strong, as that of gravitation, by which the "rivers run down and run into the sea."

Freight Movements.

The Union Pacific Railway Company yesterday secured a full trainload of coffee from San Francisco to St. Louis. It goes via the Central and Union Pacific railroads. The same company also took a train of forty cars of sealskins from the Alaska Fur Company to New York. The California railways seem to "hold their own" as against the Canadian Pacific.

Mr. A. J. Hechtman, the agent of the Fast Freight Line, via the Southern Pacific, Central Pacific and Union Pacific railways, has made arrangements for a fast fruit freight line between Los Angeles and Chicago, making three days and eighteen hours to Ogden. He yesterday sent a carload of grapes and pears to Chicago by express passenger train.

This new arrangement will be of great value to the fruit-growers of Los Angeles county, as it takes their fruit to market in fine condition.

The Strike.

There is no material change in the situation as regards the strike at the Baker Iron Works. The men refused to work upon the terms offered and Mr. Baker refused to accede to the demands of the men, in consequence of which all of the hands but five and the apprentices quit work. Other men are being engaged to take their places and no difficulty has been experienced as yet. Everything was reported quiet at the works last night and no trouble is anticipated.

Painless Regulation.

It is no longer a question of doubt—although the contrary was once believed—that medicines which produce violent effects are unsuited to other than desperate emergencies. In other words, that super-potent remedies are calculated to weaken and injure the system rather than reform its irregularities. Among medicines of debilitating effect are cathartics and cholagogues which copiously and abruptly evacuate the bowels. Because it does not do this, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is preferable to the drenching class of purgatives. Painless in its effects, it is sufficiently active to remedy chronic constipation. It relieves by invigorating the intestines, and enables, not forces, them to perform the duty imposed upon them by nature. Promoting the secretion of bile in normal quantities by its healthfully stimulating effect upon the liver, it is eminently conductive to digestion, and contributes in no small degree to keep the bowels regular.

Suicide.

DR. FLINT'S HEART REMEDY has saved more lives by timely use, and has kept from suicide or the insane asylum more victims of nervous disorders than all the physicians with their pet methods of treatment. At druggists, $1.50. Descriptive treatise with each bottle; or address J.J. Mack & Co., S. F.

A-Safeguard.

The fatal rapidity with which slight Colds and Coughs frequently develop into the gravest maladies of the throat and lungs, is a consideration which should impel every prudent person to keep at hand, as a household remedy, a bottle of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

Nothing else gives such immediate relief and works so sure a cure in all affections of this class. That eminent physician, Prof. F. Sweetzer, of the Maine Medical School, Brunswick, Me., says:—

"Medical science has produced no other anodyne expectorant so good as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It is invaluable for diseases of the throat and lungs."

The same opinion is expressed by the well-known Dr. L. J. Addison, of Chicago, Ill., who says:—

"I have never found, in thirty-five years of continuous study and practice of medicine, any preparation of so great value as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, for treatment of diseases of the throat and lungs. It not only breaks up colds and cures severe coughs, but is more effective than anything else in relieving even the most serious bronchial and pulmonary affections."

AYER'S

Cherry Pectoral

Is not a new claimant for popular confidence, but a medicine which is to-day saving the lives of the third generation who have come into being since it was first offered to the public.

There is not a household in which this invaluable remedy has once been introduced where its use has ever been abandoned, and there is not a person who has ever given it a proper trial for any throat or lung disease susceptible of cure, who has not been made well by it.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has, in numberless instances, cured obstinate cases of chronic Bronchitis, Laryngitis, and even acute Pneumonia, and has saved many patients in the earlier stages of Pulmonary Consumption. It is a medicine that only requires to be taken in small doses, is pleasant to the taste, and is needed in every house where there are children, as there is nothing so good as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL for treatment of Croup and Whooping Cough.

These are all plain facts, which can be verified by anybody, and should be remembered by everybody.

A Card From the Baker Iron Works Company.

EDITOR HERALD: We had intended to have said nothing more in reference to the strike at our works, but an article in last evening's Express signed "Employes" so misrepresents the facts, we feel compelled to correct it, being assured that it is not a fair representation of the feelings of a majority of the strikers. And right here wherein lies the great wrong and danger of strikes: One or two men assume to be the mouthpiece for the whole. They commence their work among the men, who have the interest of their employers at heart, to take their time to consider it and assent to a proposition to get rid of them, and perhaps put their names to something they did not take time to investigate, and once having got their names, they try to hold them responsible for all that they may say in the future. We have known this to have been the facts in all strikes, and we now know it is the case in this, for a number of our best men have told us so. If it were the individuals we were dealing with we would have no trouble with them at all, for the majority of our men are good, intelligent, industrious men—men capable of seeing the right and wrong side; but they allow themselves to be controlled by one or two who are not entitled to so much credit.

But for the correction: "Employes" say we misrepresent them again; that they did propose to meet us and try and adjust, etc.; that on the 16th they sent us a communication from a committee they had appointed—one from each department—to meet us, and we ignored them entirely. Now, we present herewith the communication they refer to, which corroborates what we said instead of refuting it—namely, that they gave us no chance to argue the question and that we are trying to misrepresent them and prejudice the people in our favor, etc.:

LOS ANGELES, August 16th.

"To the Baker Iron Works Company,

GENTLEMEN—We, the undersigned committee appointed by your employes, have decided to comply with your request, and give you time to consider the matter brought before you yesterday. We shall, however, expect your answer on Monday, August 22d, whether or not you will accept nine hours as a day's work from that date.

Respectfully yours,
T. BLACKBURN,
A. BURRELL,
JOHN DONNELLY,
LOUIS BICKES,
W. L. CARSON,"

Now, does this show anything else but just what we have said? They gave us no chance to meet them, but gave as an ultimatum that we must not work but nine hours. As we said before, the mass of our men did not know this and are being deceived. Honest and true themselves, they supposed their associates were. Now, we must say one word more. They carry the idea that they did not threaten to interfere with those that chose to work. Now, we have positive evidence to the contrary. A good man tells us to-day he would not sign the demand, but when the men went out they told him he must go, for if he did not they would see to it that he had to leave this town. Further, during the week and pending the giving of our answer, we called into our office the foreman of each department and put the question to them thus: "Now, if the strikers go out are you willing to stay and help us with new men that we shall put in?" Their reply was that, "We always are down on strikes, but we dare not stay here. We would forfeit our lives by doing so. If protected here, we would be met and knocked down in the streets. Then it came to us direct from the union that an advance of wages was under discussion, and that it was decided first to get them down to the nine hourse, and then we will carry them to the advance pay. With these facts brought before us we concluded we might as well have it settled at once, namely, whether we were to make our own bargains for our men, or, in other words, allowed to run our own business.

Just one word more. But a few days previous to this demand we had conceded a raise of wages in the car-shop under a protest that we had to make our contracts for three months ahead.

We don't like to be writing an answer to letters signed employes when we don't know which of the seventy-five of our men that left us wrote it, and are pretty certain that they were not bound nor responsible for what was written or said. Employes are trying to make a different issue from the true one that is between us and our men and it is not the men either but that other company that assume so much and the ones we have so wonderfully offended. In the above article we have shown by their own communication that all we said was true and that they gave us no chance to reach the men and reason with them that is the tactic of this self constituted company that the laboring man and mechanic they are so wonderfully anxious for shall let them do their business and thinking. But as good fortune would have it some of the men chose to think for themselves and more of them are of the same stamp but are intimidated from the exercise of an opinion from having seen the effects of this organization on works East and fear personal violence and prefer to remain passive.

The man who does the thinking for the men or at least does the writing shows a weakness and a want of the use of a pen, and no doubt has a less inclination to use the tools of a mechanic. Now we disclaim any part of this remark as having been made for a single man that left us, for we don't believe one of them wrote it, though it is signed employes; if so, we would be much obliged if he would put his name to it. We will say our men, as a body, are an intelligent class of men and quite competent to do their own thinking. It is in their intelligence and good judgement that we have based much of our success. But, nevertheless, we must have it understood that we are alone responsible for our works and not they, and as long as we pay them all we agree to we can't see wherein comes the oppression so much harped on by the mouthpiece of the employee. We will say this: If he or his company will do as much for the mechanics as we are doing right here in Los Angeles, we will divide the profits with his company.

BAKER IRON WORKS.

Ball and Wicket.

There was a very fair attendance at the Sixth street base ball grounds yesterday to witness the game of cricket by the Los Angeles club. It was unfortunate that the game was not commenced until so late an hour as 5, as it was impossible to play more than one inning ere darkness set in and put a stop to the game. The second inning will be played to-day on the same ground and at the same time as yesterday.

Yesterday's contest was a very fair exhibition and some good batters and bowlers developed during the course of the game. The feature of the play was Mr. A. M. Jones' performance with the bat, who scored 32 before he was caught out at mid-wicket by Alphonso. Messrs. C. E. Fox and Alphonso did the bowling for the fielders, being relieved at times by Adams, and although the ground was scarcely adapted to the game—being too hard and caked—both bowlers and batsmen acquitted themselves very well. Mr. Fox's delivery was very good, and he received able assistance at the wicket by Courvosier, who wore the pads for the fielders and played a very careful and effective game. Mr. James Gardiner did some good work in the field, as also did Mr. Adams, who prevented a good many runs by his alertness and steady playing.

The following is the score of the game:

MR. WAY'S ELEVEN.

Arthur Jones, c., Alfonso, b., Adams	32

SINFUL SALVATION SLOGGERS.

Young Kee, One of the Army, Badly Used Up.

Last night the quiet of the city was disturbed by a genuine knock down and drag out at the barracks of the Salvation Army, that poor band of cranks and fanatics who, with tambourines and hallelujah shouts make the night hideous. Not long ago there came to this city a young man named Kee, who was a Salvationist and had joined the ranks at Los Angeles. Kee remained with the army for some time, but he finally tired of their company and deserted them. The young man was accused by the good brothers of the army of insinuating that he was intimate with one of the females of the band. The report reached headquarters, and one of the members of the army stated to the congregation at the barracks last night that the statements made by Kee were false and without fonndation. Kee was in the audience and arose and stated that he had made no such statements, and that he believed the Salvation Army was composed of a lot of frauds and hypocrites who were working for dollars and cents, and he wanted nothing more to do with them. The Captain ordered the young man to leave the room, but he refused to do so, and stated that they could not make him leave; whereupon a Captain and a cadet wet down and put him out by force, and in so doing the young man was badly bruised about the head by being bumped against the wall. They pushed him out on the sidewalk, and here he was badly beaten by John Seehorn and Jake Armentrout, two young men of this city, and was pushed into the street, striking on his head. Some young men who saw Kee fall ran and picked him up and carried him in an insensible condition into the barracks, where he would be out of the way of the mob who had congregated to see the fight. He was no sooner placed in the hall than the pugnacious captain and cadet grabbed him by the legs and dragged him out into the street again. The young man was taken across the street by the bystanders to a saloon and cared for until he recovered consciousness. The officers arrested the captain and cadet and placed them in jail, where they remained all night. Young Seehorn and Armentrout were also arrested, but they were released on bail.

Young Kee was taken to his home by Officer West and Constable Faris. He was so weak from the effects of the beating that he had received that he could hardly walk along, and he seemed at times to be out of his head. This was indeed a brutal affair, and the men who beat young Kee should be punished to the full extent of the law, because there was no justification for such an attack. The young man did not show fight, nor, as far as we could learn, try to resist the Salvationist when they were putting him out; and the beating which he received was uncalled for and unjust.

The Salvation Army have created no little trouble in this city, and our citizens have become tired of them, and, no doubt, if the foregoing statements are true, the Army will at least be partly wiped out of existence here.—[San Bernardino Courier.

Railroad to San Jacinto.

Sometime since a contract was made between the people of San Jacinto and Fred Perris, of the California Southern, subject to the approval of the Atchison company, for building a branch road from Perris to San Jacinto winthin six months. The town of Perris was to pay a subsidy of $7000 and San Jacinto $55,000. A few days since Mr. Perris notified the other side to the contract that the company would require a year's time instead of six months. This was not agreed to and the contract was canceled.

The Register does not despair of getting a railroad, and says:

"Within a few days another proposition has been made which promises good results. This is by the Pomona, Elsinore and San Jacinto Railroad Company, who have agreed to commence building at once if a $45,000 subsidy is assured them. The company is composed of San Diego, Riverside and Pomona capitalists, backed by ex-Governor Merrill; and the line, of which some grading has been done, extends from the California Southern just north of Elsinore to this place. When built an extension would probably be made through to Pomona. This company mean business and another week will probably see something definine arranged.

Meanwhile we rest in the full assurance that a few months will see the railroad in San Jacinto. Certainly at no time for many months has the outlook been brighter, and what we regard as a blow at the time, may in the end prove a blessing.—[Riverside Press.

Take Notice.

Stock in the Lankershim Ro. will be offered at present rates until next Saturday evening only. The railroad is an assured fact, and the syndicate have decided to close the sale of stock at the time mentioned, at this price. A word to the wise, etc.

Besides, the way he hawks and spits is disgusting," "Don't break the engagement for that: tell him to take Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It will cure him completely." "Well, I'll tell him. I hate to break it off for in all other respects he's quite too charming." Of course, it cured his catarrh.

Successful Enterprise.

Every man or woman who purchased stock in the companies who are selling the Wolfskill, Porter, Providencia, and other large ranchos, will acknowledge that they never made better or safer investments. The demand for good land is so great that all large ranchos that are bought at any reasonable price, will certainly bring to the purchasers an immense return on their investment. The same enterprising gentlemen who are so successfully managing the ranches above mentioned, have been fortunate enough to secure 12,000 acres of the best land in the famous Lankershim Ranch in the San Fernando Valley, only eight miles from Los Angeles.

The syndicate who purchased this fine property, are about to form a company to own, and subdivide, and sell this 12,000 acres. The first purchasers of stock will get the land at $65 per acre by subscribing for the stock at $100 per share on very easy terms.

How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Was the name formerly given to Scrofula because of a superstition that it could be cured by a king's touch. The world is wiser now, and knows that can only be cured by a thorough purification of the blood. If this is neglected, the disease perpetuates its taint through generation after generation. Among its earlier symptomatic developments are Eczema, Cutaneous Eruptions, Tumors, Boils, Carbuncles, Erysipelas, Purulent Ulcers, Nervous and Physical Collapse, etc. If allowed to continue, Rheumatism, Scrofulous Catarrh, Kidney and Liver Diseases, Tubercular Consumption, and various other dangerous or fatal maladies, are produced by it.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Is the only powerful and always reliable blood-purifying medicine. It is so effectual an alterative that it eradicates from the system Hereditary Scrofula, and the kindred poisons of contagious diseases and mercury. At the same time it enriches and vitalizes the blood, restoring healthful action to the vital organs and rejuvenating the entire system. This great

Regenerative Medicine

Is composed of the genuine Honduras Sarsaparilla, with Yellow Dock, Stillingia, the Iodides of Potassium and Iron, and other ingredients of great potency, carefully and scientifically compounded. Its formula is generally known to the medical profession, and the best physicians constantly prescribe AYER'S SARSAPARILLA as an

Absolute Cure

For all diseases caused by the vitiation of the blood. It is concentrated to the highest practicable degree, far beyond any other preparation for which like effects are claimed, and is therefore the cheapest, as well as the best blood purifying medicine, in the world.

Personal Mention.

A. C. Bernard, Tucson, A. T., is at the St. Elmo.

C. R. Gunn, St. Thomas, Canada, is at the St. Elmo.

E. W. Wells, of Prescott, A. T., is stopping at the St. Elmo.

Frank McCoy is home again from a brief visit to San Francisco.

Major Hutton and his brother "Southy" went up to Santa Paula yesterday.

Mayor Workman is expected to return from the north on the first of September.

B. M. Clemens, of St. Louis, is visiting Los Angeles and stopping at the St. Elmo.

W. A. Kirk has been appointed roadmaster of the California Southern from Daggett to National City.

T. M. Sheridan has been appointed roadmaster of the California Central, with headquarters at San Bernardino.

Ed. Adams, of Messrs, Adams & Sons, leaves here to-morrow to become a permanent resident of the Bay City.

L. J. Lachman, the well-known winemaker and merchant, of San Francisco, is registered at the St. Elmo.

J. Harry Conlan, who has been confined to his bed for the past week with a sprained ankle, expects to be out in a few days.

W. M. Glenn, of the San Bernardino Courier, has changed his base of operations to the Index, of that city. He is a rustler for news.

Hon. S. M. White went up to San Buenaventura to settle a bill of exceptions in Joe Dyer's case. The hearing of motion for a new trial will take place during the October term of court.

Tom Templeton, so well known to the business men of the city for his long and honorable connection with the HERALD, leaves by the steamer next Monday for a somewhat prolonged visit to Washington Territory.

Mr. A. Glassell Patton returned yesterday from a five months' engagement in surveying the lands of the Thermolita Colony, in Butte county. The tract consists of 7000 acres of land watered by zanjas from Feather river. When the tract shall be well advertised in the Los Angeles HERALD it will boom.

Mr. S. C. Waite, of Riverside, is visiting his brother, R. P. Waite, in this city. Mr. Waite was one of the first orange growers in Riverside, and has gathered a large fortune in the business. He can tell others how the thing is done. He did it by planting the best trees on the best soil he could find, and taking the best care of his trees and fruit. He also raises oranges on the high mesa at Highlands, above San Bernardino. Orange growing pays well when well conducted.

News Notes.

The United States District Court will meet to-day for the transaction of business.

The alarm from box No. 36 yesterday afternoon about four o'clock, was for the burning of a tar kettle on Requena street. No damage.

The work of grading Main street for the pavement is progressing quite rapidly between Third and Fourth streets and in other portions of the street gas and water connections are being made so as to cause no tearing up after the pavement is down.

A meeting of our German singers and citizens is to be held at room 12, Lichtenberger Block, on Friday evening at 8 P. M., to devise means for a proper representation of Los Angeles at the National Singing Festival, to be held at St. Louis in June, 1888.

It seems to be a settled thing that at least two railways will pass through La Cañada, Crescenta Cañada, Monte Vista and Tujunga to San Fernando. There is no finer location for health and beauty on the American continent than the region mentioned, and the railways will make it the loveliest for residence in the world.

Progressive Pasadena is moving in the matter of erecting a large and beautiful city hall on the corner of Raymond avenue and Glendale street. It will probably be built before the city hall in Los Angeles. A better situation for a city hall in Pasadena would be on the beautiful crown of land on the line of the California Central east of the Raymond Hotel.

The people of San Jacinto, one of the most thrifty settlements in California, have generally concluded to build a railway to Colton, instead of stopping at Perris. By this plan they will come in connection with the whole scheme of South California railways of the California Central and the Southern Pacific. The idea is a good one.

There has been a slight ripple in social circles in Azusa. Captain Vaughn, Zanjero of the Water Commissioners, was ordered to turn the water of the San Gabriel ditch into the cement ditch, and proceeded so to do by orders of two of the three Commissioners, when he was met by William Parker with a persuading revolver and ordered to desist. Parker claims that he had orders from the third Commissioner to prevent Vaughn from changing the course of the water. So it seems that one Commissioner and a revolver are more powerful than two Commissioners with no revolver. Parker is a fearless man, and old residents remember that he furnished the first corpse for the graveyard at Azusa.

The Riverside Press states that "R. P. Waite, well-known in that city, was the most injured of any in the railway accident last Sunday, and was carried to the Pullman sleeping car." It was Mr. Baldwin of Pasadena who was carried to the car. All the other wounded persons walked from the wreck. While Mr. Waite is unable to attend to business, and is somewhat weak from loss of blood, and feverish to some extent, he is not considered in a dangerous condition. The heavy stove in the car that rolled over, broke loose from its useless moorings and overtook Mr. Baldwin rather unceremoniously. The meeting was most unwelcome to Mr. Baldwin and demoralizin gto the car where the stove pursued its desirous and hurried way. The writer saw the stove on its travels, but failed to meet the ferruginous enemy.

Judges Brosseau and Bronson returned yesterday from a six days trip to the San Gorgonia cañon. They report fine sport, and in the six days killed five deer and a large quantity of small game. They also found a number of bear tracks and on several occasions had to drive them away from their camp, that they might slumber in peace. They return home much improved in health and better able to cope with the law relating to the treatment of dried venison and camp life.

CATARRH,

Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis and

Diseases of Women,

As well as all CHRONIC DISEASES treated specially and successfully

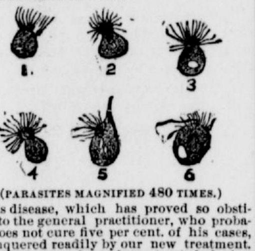
—BY—

W. N. Davis, M.D., M, C. P. S.O,

45½ N. Spring St., Los Angeles, Cal.

Nasal Catarrh

Treated upon a new principle, founded upon the fact that the disease is parasitic in its origin. The parasites can be demonstrated by the microscope, and will present the appearance shown below:



(PARASITES MAGNIFIED 480 TIMES.)

This disease, which has proved so obstinate to the general practitioner, who probably does not cure five per cent. of his cases, is conquered readily by our new treatment. Over 2000 cases have been treated during the last three years in this city by this new treatment, and in fully ninety per cent. successfully.

Hundreds of references can be given.

Medical Inhalation Combined with Constitutional Remedies.

Our treatment of the diseases of the respiratory passages consists in the employment of Medical Inhalation, for its direct effects on the diseased organs; and, at the same time, adopting such hygienic measures, and administering such medicines by the stomach as will most effectually purify the blood, give tone to the nervous system and build up and strengthen the general constitution. In other words, employ combined local and general treatment.

What is medical inhalation? Before stating briefly what medical inhalation is, we propose, in as few words as possible, to state clearly what it is not.

Medical Inhalation is not a cure-all, a nostrum, or a panacea. It is not a specific remedy for any disease. It is not a quack medicine, advertised to cure any and all the ills that flesh is heir to, and intended to fill the pockets of its proprietors. It is not a talisman whose possession insures health to its possessor without the intervention of either sense or judgment. Medical inhalation is none of these things.

Medical Inhalation is simply and solely a method of taking medicines by inhaling or breathing them into the lungs, instead of swallowing them into the stomach. By inhalation the proper medicines are applied directly to the seat of the disease, in the nose, throat or lungs; and it is clear to every reasoning person how peculiarly applicable inhalation is in the disorders of the orgnns named. If you have scalded or burned the surface of the body, or wounded any limb or member, you do not swallow the remedy intended to heal the disorganized tissues' On the contrary you apply it directly to the seat of the wound or injury. Why, then, when suffering from catarrh of the nasal passages or throat, or afflicted with ulceration of the lungs, should you rely on medicines taken into the stomach?

Our experience and success in treating diseases of the nose, throat and lungs demonstrates, beyond all question, that the true scientific treatment of these diseases is that treatment which combines the local effect of medical inhalation with the constitutional effects of systemic remedies, given in the usual way by the stomach. One or both methods must be adopted as the circumstances demand, and such remedies must be employed as the experience and judgment of the physician have proved to be proper in each particular case.

CATARRH.

THE TERM CATARRH IS APPLIED TO A peculiar disorder of the nostril- and adjacent parts, which prevails to an alarming extent, and is productive of very serious consequences.

The most prominent and characteristic feature is a morbid discharge from the head, varying in its nature at different times.

In some there is an almost constant flow of clear, acrid fluid, but oftener an offensive, purulent or muco-purulent, greenish-yellow matter is secreted, which accumulates in the nostrils or drops into the throat, necessitating its frequent removal by blowing the nose or expectoration, and often by both processes. Sometimes patients feel as though their head was in a state of rottenness, so great is the amount of matter discharged and so fetid is its odor. The patient is greatly annoyed by the constant dropping into the throat of the mo bid matter from the head, and as a recumbent position naturally favors the flow downward his rest is frequently disturbed from this cause. Many sufferers are obliged to lie with the head very much elevated in order to sleep with some degree of comfort.

In others a tough, viscid and offensive phlegm collects behind and above the soft palate, in the passage between the throat and head, adhering to the parts with gluish tenacity. Its lodgment embarrasses respiration and creates a sensation of irritation and uneasiness in the affected locality, which gives rise to a constant and almost irresistible desire to relieve that discomfort by drawing the mucus into the throat so as to eject it by the mouth. This practice, popularly known as "hawking," is characteristic of catarrh, and proves as embarrassing to the one affected as it is disagreeable to those around him.

Again, the offensive matter hardens and deposits itself on the membrane in the shape of dry, hard concretions, which are discharged by way of the nostrils or throat in lumps or fragments of a deep green tint. In some cases these incrustations accumulate to such an extent as to form a regular plug in the nose, which obstructs breathing and produce serious discomfort. So firmly do these incrustations adhere to the point of attachment that their removal usually requires the most violent efforts; not unfrequently they have to be torn from the membrane. Occasionally a solid cast of notable size is expelled, on which there are generally traces of blood, but in some cases the cast presents a tubular appearance, being of exact shape of the nasal cavity. This condition is indicative of ulceration, which, in time, may destroy the bony structure of the nose and produce a subsequent flattening of that organ.

Cases are occasionally met with in which a thick, viscid, slimy secretion coats the membrane of the nasal cavities and then putrefies, giving rise to a stench which is really overpowering, and sufficiently fetid to poison the atmosphere of a whole room; and there are others in which all the secretions of the membrane are suspended, causing an unpleasant feeling of dryness, heat and feverishness in the head and nose—a condition popularly known as "Dry Catarrh."

The disease speedily extends to the air cavities of the bones of the forehead and face, giving rise to a distressing sensation of heavy weight or compression over the forehead, especially in the region above and between the eyes, and to a feeling of fulness, heat, irritation, soreness or pain in the nostrils near the root of the nose, as well as in the upper part of the throat, above and behind the soft palate. Sometimes there is pain obstinately fixed in some particular part, as in the temple, on the top of the head, at the back of the neck, or behind the orbits, and, occasionally, pain manifests itself in the face of so severe a character that it is frequently mistaken for neuralgia.

The breath is always tainted, and at times assumes an exceeding fetid and sickening odor. In some cases it becomes so revoltingly offensive as to render the sufferer an object of disgust to himself as well as to others.

The nasal membrane is thickened and conjested, causing the nose to be stopped up, sometimes on one side, sometimes on the other, and often on both, giving rise to a disagreeable, stuffy sensation in the head, and occasioning violent and prolonged paroxysms of sneezing.

The voice is weak, indistinct and husky, or of a nasal character, displaying a sort of snifling quality. Oftentimes there is a continuous hoarseness and discordance. There is also a sense of irritation in the part, and frequent attempts to clear the throat of phlegm, producing the sound "hem," more or less forcibly. In some cases patients complain of an uncomfortable feeling of fullness, or a choky sensation in the throat, and in others of a distressing and almost constant dryness, for the temporary relief of which they have to swallow frequently. Others; again, speak of a constant bad or nauseous taste in the mouth or throat.

The stomach generally suffers more or less and becomes weak and irritable; the appetite is capricious and nearly always bad in the morning. The patient is languid, unable to perform mental or physical labor with the usual facility, is nervous, depressed in spirits, at times fearful, timid, agitated and inclined to drowsiness and sleep, the memory weakened and permanent impairment seriously threatened.

The mucous membrane soon becomes morbidly sensitive to unfavorable influences, and in spite of the utmost care becomes affected from the slightest causes, so that at last a breath of wind upon the lining of the nose or throat becomes productive of a cold, and gives rise to serious disturbances of the respiratory organs. Thus the patient is subject to frequent and repeated colds, each attack aggravating the disease by giving it a new impulse and involving a larger extent of surface than its predecessor. In this manner the difficulty spreads from organ to organ, invading the throat, larnyx, trachea and bronchial tubes, until, encroaching further and further, it reaches the finer ramifications of the bronchi, when but a slight impulse is required to send it to the lungs. Catarrh may, and often does, affect other organs in the body, especially those containing a mucous membrane, such as the stomach, bowels, kidneys, etc.

By the employment of proper inhalations in the form of medicated vapor (not steam or spray) we are able to produce immediate and direct action upon the diseased surface in the pharynx and nasal passages, for air will find its way into the most remote and intricate cavities, where it is utterly impossible to make fluid applications. By these means every case can be cured.

Persons desiring treatment by this system of practice can use the remedy at home as well as at our office, and which will cause no inconvenience or hindrance to business whatever.

I have seen so many of these cases cured that I do not consider any case hopeless unless the disease has advanced to the chest and that both lungs are seriously involved. Even then the inhalations aid us in dissolving the mucus and in contracting and healing the cavities, which nothing else can do with the same success. The very best references from those already cured.

CONSULTATION FREE.

Those who desire to consult with me in regard to their cases had better call at the office for consultation and examination, but, if impossible to do so, can write for a copy of my Medical Treatise, containing a list of questions. Address
